

Immigration Reform: In Search of the Common Good

Bernard Evans, Ph.D.

The Scriptures tell us that we are to welcome the stranger and that we are one people working for the well-being of this one body. Catholic theology tells us this should happen in all areas of our life – especially in our efforts to seek the common good. National efforts to reform immigration laws provide opportunities to explore what it means to work for the common good.

Bernard Evans holds the Virgil Michel Ecumenical Chair in Rural Social Ministries and is associate professor of pastoral theology at Saint John's School of Theology-Seminary and the undergraduate Department of Theology of the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University. He completed a master's degree at Saint John's in 1971 and earned a doctorate at The Catholic University of America in 1986. His previous books include Lazarus at the Table: Catholics and Social Justice, published by Liturgical Press in 2007, and Vote Catholic?: Beyond the Political Din, published by Liturgical Press in 2008.
